AtHoc, Inc. Chooses Core and More Technologies to Help Strengthen Internet Marketing Strategy

June 1, 2010 - We are pleased to announce that Silicone Valley, CA. based AtHoc, Inc. has selected Core and More Technologies to provide end-to-end internet marketing services.

We are excited to have been chosen by this emergency notification pioneer. By selecting Core and More Technologies to help refine their message and reach the broadest range of potential customers across the globe, AtHoc has once again demonstrated unwavering consistency in seeking only the highest level of quality on behalf of their service providers. Leveraging the services of Core and More Technologies, AtHoc will show their visitors how they accelerate innovation to meet customer demand more rapidly, expand partner opportunities and sustain their position of industry leadership.

Another integral part of AtHoc's internet marketing strategy is to demonstrate their consistent commitment to customer service and product support. At Core and More Technologies we share that commitment, making this the perfect arrangement for both of our organizations.

Their platform is saving lives and mitigating the damages caused by any number of disaster situations. By helping them improve their current search engine presence, we are helping consumers to discover a solution that has been proven in countless instances to operate efficiently when the supporting infrastructure is experiencing its highest possible volume.
